Healthcare Georgia Foundation grantmaking for health

In 2007, Healthcare Georgia Foundation established HealthTec[dl], a statewide distance learning program designed to support and strengthen Georgia's healthcare workforce and services provided by nonprofit health organizations. Through the application of information technology, HealthTec[dl] programming and services:

- Support nonprofit health organizations that drive positive change in their communities,
- Promote programs which improve health and health care for Georgia residents, and
- Connect people, programs and resources across Georgia.

Program History:

HealthTec[dl] evolved from a Foundation pilot program and the strategic application of technology to provide training, technical assistance, and capacity building services to a wide array of organizations and health professionals. Since its inception, more than 50 distance learning programs designed for health professionals and nonprofit health organizations have been presented and archived through video and web conferencing technology. Many of these training and capacity building professional education programs are available at no cost to viewers and some are eligible for CE/CME credits. Previous programs have addressed:

- Chronic disease management
- Infectious disease control
- Emerging health issues
- Workforce development
- Health careers
- Program evaluation
- Fund development
- Working with volunteers
- Nonprofit Board development

Program Goals:

- Promote capacity building among nonprofit health organizations
- Strengthen Georgia's health professions workforce
- Foster collaboration among public and private nonprofit and for profit health organizations
- Improve access to affordable high quality health and health care services
- Inform policy decisions and resource allocations
